

MATT BREEN

AT MIT SINCE 2012

Teaching archery, badminton, golf, tennis, squash, fitness stress & nutrition, broomball, soccer & boot camp for athletes

EDUCATION

Bachelors in Business Administration from Massachusetts College of Liberal Arts
Masters in Physical Education from Springfield College

BIGGEST DREAM

Watch a baseball game in every major league stadium

GUILTY PLEASURE

Pizza & Wings

FAVORITE PART OF TEACHING AT MIT

Students really embrace the importance of physical education and are able to appreciate learning life skills

Matt Breen has been a Physical Education Instructor at MIT since 2013. After graduating from MCLA in 2000 he went on to get his Master's in Physical Education from Springfield College. Breen has taught archery, badminton, squash, tennis, fitness stress & nutrition, broomball, soccer, and boot camp for athletes. He loves that at MIT students really seem to embrace the importance of physical education and can appreciate learning lifetime skills. Breen enjoys playing golf and watching football and baseball and aspires to watch a baseball game in every major league stadium.