

FAVORITE SPORT TO PARTICIPATE IN
Cross Country
Skiing

CARRIE
SAMPSON-MOORE

AT MIT SINCE 2002

Currently Director of the MIT
Physical Education Program

EDUCATION
MA, Kinesiology
BS, Physical Education

FAVORITE MUSIC
Acoustic

UNIQUE FACT
Qualified as a US Army Paratrooper

Carrie Sampson-Moore

Carrie Sampson-Moore completed her Bachelors of Science in Physical Education and Masters of Art in Kinesiology with a focus in Sport Management, Sport Psychology and a minor in coaching at the University of Minnesota – Twin Cities. She is currently working on a doctorate in Higher Education Leadership at University Massachusetts – Boston. Carrie has spent her career in wellness, first opening fitness/wellness facilities and developing programs for students at the University of Minnesota, Miami, Ohio University, and MIT. Since 2005, she has had the privilege of directing the physical education program at MIT. Carrie's focus is leading the program and supporting instructors to do what they do best. She really enjoys teaching as well as creating courses with instructors that meet the needs of MIT students.