

PAUL DILL

AT MIT SINCE 1992

Teaching tennis, golf, volleyball & skating Coaching women's & men's varsity volleyball

FAVORITE THING ABOUT TEACHING AT MIT

Seeing young people learn life-long lessons and get excited about learning something new

EDUCATION

B.A. in Economics from Bates College
M.B.A. from the University of Connecticut

BEST VACATION

Australia & Tasmania with my wife in 2009

ADVICE FROM FUTURE SELF

Keep it chill

Paul Dill joined MIT in 1992 as the Head Coach of Women's Volleyball and teaches tennis, volleyball, golf, and skating. He graduated from Bates College with a BA in Economics and from the University of Connecticut with an MBA. Dill finds that the type of students that come to MIT to be the best type to teach and coach. He gets to see young people learn new activities and become excited about a new skill. Dill remains an athlete playing tennis, golf, basketball, and softball. His favorite TV show is Sherlock and favorite book is Game of Thrones.